Lecture On Mark Twain

Last Friday evening, Oct. 26, the students of Mount Hermon School were entertained in Camp Hall by William Webster Ellsworth from the hour of seven to eight o'clock. Mr. Ellsworth is a great grandson of Noah Webster and a good friend of the late Samuel Clemens, better known as Mark Twain. He lectured on the subject of Samuel Clemens' life and works.

Mr. Ellsworth discussed Mr. Clemens' life in general, and also in reference to his books, the most noted of which are Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn. However, the speaker said, that Samuel Clemens stated that his best work was Joan of Arc. This book was his most poetic work, and while not so well known, is considered his best.

Mr. Ellsworth told of Clemens' life from his boyhood to his very last days, giving amusing and interesting events from the high spots of his life. He told of Clemens' acquaintance with other people, and how they felt about a man who, in his early life was considered very rash and impudent. The relationship of his life in connection with his stories was also a very interesting part of the lecture. For example, all of the characters in the books Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn were actual people in the life of the young Samuel Clemens. His mother furnished the inspiration for the renowned character of Aunt Polly.

Another item that was mentioned was the fact that Clemens received many honors from various institutions and colleges. Among these, and probably the most distinctive, was the degree of Doctor of Literature bestowed upon him by Oxford University.

Altogether, Mr. Ellsworth presented a very interesting, accurate and amusing characterization of Samuel Clemens, and a very delightful description of his works and experiences.

Hermion Wins Cross-Country Meet

Last Friday afternoon, the Mt. Hermon Cross-Country team met the Greenfield squad in a practice race. Hermon came out on top to the tune of a perfect score, all the first five men to finish being Hermon men. The men who finished in the first tier and their times were as follows:—first, Carl Hedman, Hermon, time, 14 min. 19 sec.; second, Arthur Oldershaw, Hermon, 14 min. 39 sec.; third, Draper, Hermon, 14 min. 56 sec.; fourth, Milton, Hermon, 15 min. 16 sec.; fifth, Loder, Hermon, 15 min. 30 sec.; sixth, Lampin, Greenfield, 15 min. 34 sec.; seventh, Reed, Hermon, 16 min. 35 sec.; eighth, Romanorick, Greenfield, 16 min. 54 sec.; ninth, Peters, Hermon, 16 min. 57 sec.; tenth, Wood, Greenfield, 16 min. 58 sec.

On Saturday, November 10th, the Hermon team will meet the Springfield-College freshman cross-country team at Springfield.

Seniors Defeat the Frosh

Last Saturday, in one of the final deciding games of the season, the seniors defeated the freshmen by the score of 14-0. This game put the freshmen out of the running in the intramural league, leaving the seniors to fight it out with the juniors for the championship. The battle was hard fought, but the breaks seemed to be against the frosh, and the seniors attack a little too powerful.

Juniors Swamp Sophomores

The other game on Saturday was an unevenly contested match between the juniors and the sophomores. The turning point of the game came very soon after the starting whistle with the juniors taking the offensive and soon running up a very pleasing number of points. The final score being 20-0.

This game put the juniors in a tie with the seniors for first place. The juniors and seniors have met but once before, when the juniors edged out a slight victory. The final senior-junior game will prove a very interesting one to all concerned.

Squads Begin Intensive Training

The Senior-Junior football game has been postponed until after the interscholastic meet with Williston Academy, so that the squads can have one continuous stretch of training with no games to interrupt. It is felt that this will give the squads more practice and be more beneficial to them.

Mr. and Mrs. Morrow Entertain

On Saturday evening, October 27th, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Morrow were the hosts of members of the faculty at a supper and bridge party in the parlor of Overton Hall. The supper was served on bridge tables expertly arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Morrow in the parlor which was lighted by candles. The supper consisted of grapefruit, salad, peas, sandwiches, tarts, and coffee. After the supper the guests played bridge for the remainder of the evening. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Gallagher, Mr. and Mrs. Lester P. White, Mr. and Mrs. Axel B. Forslund, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. Harlan L. Baxter, Miss Anna Miller, Mr. Ray L. Armstrong, Mr. Robert V. Burdick, and Mr. Carleton W. L'Honnemieu.

Memorial Service For Dr. Speer

Announcements of a memorial service on Sunday, November 11, for the late Headmaster Elliott Speer of Mount Hermon School were mailed from here yesterday. Dr. Robert E. Speer, father of the slain educator, will be the speaker. Others taking part in the service will include Dr. John R. Mott, chairman of the International Missionary Council; Mr. Wilfred V. Fry, president of the Board of Trustees of The Northfield Schools with which Mount Hermon is associated; the Rev. Dr. Boynton Merrill of Newton, Mass.; Mr. David Porter, acting head of Mt. Hermon, and Rev. Lester White, student pastor. Dr. Mott and Dr. Robert Speer received the impetus for their long and brilliant careers in Christian work at Northfield in D. L. Moody's time. Dr. Merrill and Mr. Fry are among Mount Hermon's most prominent alumni.

Several other functions will be held during the week-end in connection with the semi-annual visit of the Board of Trustees and the Board of Alumni Counsellors.

Saturday morning at 9:30 the Trustees will hold the meeting that was postponed from October 6 on account of the death of Headmaster Speer. A large attendance of the board is expected and it is understood that one of the first items on the agenda is the proposed election of Dr. Merrill to membership on the board.

The new reservoir in the hills above the Seminary will be dedicated at a ceremony to be held at 2:30. Mr. John L. Grandin, vice president of The Northfield Schools, will preside and the speakers will be Judge Robert Chapin Parker of Westfield, Mass., and Mr. C. I. Sterling, Jr., of the State Department of Public Health.

Following the dedication the fall meeting of the Mt. Hermon Board of Alumni Counsellors will be held at Holbrook Hall with Frederick E. Newton of Andover as chairman. Reports will be presented by Massachusetts Commissioner of Education Jerome Burt, chairman of a committee on the proposed sliding scale of tuition, and by E. A. Yarrow of the Hazen Foundation, who heads the committee on the D. L. Moody Living Endowment.

An informal reception will be held by the trustees Saturday evening at The Chateau, for members of the faculties of both schools and the Alumni Council. Dr. John R. Mott will speak on "Northfield's Opportunity Today."

Sunday's program will include, in addition to the Memorial Service, a breakfast for Alumni Counsellors and their wives at 8 a. m. and luncheon for visiting alumni and other guests at 12:30.

Field Day

By Mary MacGregor

A bright, crisp day, October 27, was selected for Field Day this year. As opposed to the previous field day, which was a mere arrangement has been made where-by inter-class competition is carried out. Each class marched on to the athletic field and sang its song; after which hockey, captain ball and volleyball were played.

For the grand opening the juniors entered first. They were dressed in blue gym rompers, large red bow ties and very small black opera hats. The cheer leader wore a heavy fur coat and a large hat giving the appearance of the big bad wolf. Just the juniors personified the little 'igs. As they marched in three little 'igs scampered back and forth playing tag. They stepped forward and sang their song which was to the tune of 'Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Wolf.'

The certificate group marched forward wearing green smocks backward and white domestic caps. To the tune of The Stein Song they sang their own version. From behind progressed the seniors singing their song as they walked to the melody of The Triumphant March from Aida. Each girl wore two white sheets draped as a gown and carried a white torch symbolic of knowledge. Over her shoulder she bore her class colors, old rose and gold.

Militaristically marching forward came sophomores dressed in white skirts and navy blue jackets. They sang their words to the old college football song, Boola Boola. The high school graduate group came next wearing blue smocks and blue caps. They sang to the tune of The Man on the Flying Trapeze, their song.

Next came the freshmen in many colored raincoats and berets. Their cheer leaders led their song to the tune of Anchors Aweigh with umbrellas.

For the spectators and the students alike hot dogs, doughnuts and hot coffee were sold throughout the afternoon. The junior hockey team defeated the certificate group in an exciting game on the field by a score of 2-0.

In the gymnasium a volleyball game followed. The senior team defeated the juniors with a score of 21-23.

The senior and sophomore captain ball teams participated in the last event. The seniors were victorious, the score being 27-2.

Social Notes

A Halloween party at the Barber District schoolhouse where the Seminary has a small Sunday School, brightened that building early last Saturday night. Various games were participated in by the thirty or so persons present. Chocolate ice cream and home-made cake gave the climax to the affair.

Miss E. May Gabel of the Seminary Bible department spent the week-end in Belmont, Mass., with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Wilson, parents of Miss Mira B. Wilson, Seminary principal were recent guests of their daughter.

On Saturday evening the girls of Moore Cottage are expecting a few hours of gala fun. A masquerade dinner party is being planned, followed by an initiation of the new girls consisting of a horror chamber which this year will extend from the attic to the cellar and through which they must pass. A fortune-teller's booth will be located in Moore for the evening and many girls will be hearing future plans they never dreamed of. Refreshments will add to the pleasure of the evening's fun.

Miss Mira B. Wilson, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Wilson, and Miss Florence Lyon were dinner guests at Moore Cottage on Wednesday evening.

Music Notes

Tennessee Mountain Teacher Chapel Speaker

By Emily Amidon

Miss Zilla Hawes, a member of the staff of the Highlander Folk School in Monteagle, Tennessee, was the speaker in chapel on Tuesday. Miss Hawes is a Vassar graduate, has been a social service worker among the people of the south and also in Philadelphia. She spoke of the lack of education among the Tennessee highlanders and how, at the time the school was founded to help them, they asked to be taught psychology and cultural geography. Miss Hawes is especially interested in the labor movement in this section of Tennessee, in aiding the people in their struggle with the textile mills where small wages barely enable them to buy their daily food. When these mills shut down, the problems of the unemployed highlanders were solved as much as possible by the Folk School staff. A cooperative laundry has been set up in Monteagle, and to better living but as a step toward a new social order.

Racial problems were discussed with the school staff and as no negroes lived in this section, a negro was asked to come and speak to the people. He impressed them very much. The school staff also worked with the church and put social gospel into practice. All this work is being done in the Tennessee highlanders and the Folk School staff is constantly aiding the people and training them to be leaders in industrial affairs and to be aware of everyday problems in the community and what to do about them.

This disease once considered incurable is now curable. This is one of the marvelous discoveries of the twentieth century. Thousands have been cured in China. Christ is certainly repeating his miracles in this world by such medical service as is being discovered and practiced. The gospel is being preached to the lepers and their children are being educated and aided in choosing a trade. Thus leprosy is an inter-national problem and unless it can be stamped out, anyone is susceptible to it.

EDITORIAL*STEEL TRAP

The Steel Trap Amendment
which comes up on Nov. 6 is so muddled in its wording that it is difficult to understand just what it is all about. After consulting the best authorities it appears that if you want a return to the old Steel Trap you will vote Yes in both places on the question. This vote then refers the question to the next town meeting for a local option vote.

THE LIQUOR QUESTION

We have been asked to write an Editorial on the Liquor Question and we presume that it is meant to the Liquor Question as it applies to our own Community.
We presume that Northfield will vote "dry" but we would like to see an honest verdict this year
rather than a hypocritical one.
Let every one who is personally dry vote "dry" and let every one who is personally "wet" but politically "dry" vote as he drinks.
We believe that under these conditions the vote will be close.

THE ISSUE IS CLEAR

Leaders of both the Democratic and Republican Parties agree that one certainty exists in the present Gubernatorial campaign, and that point of agreement is that either Gaspar G. Bacon or James M. Curley will be the next Governor of Massachusetts. There are other nominees for this office, none of whom have the slightest chance to be elected, based on precedent and a study of the totals which the combined primaries.
Therefore the voter who has the normal desire to have his or her ballot count towards the election of a candidate will cast a ballot for either Bacon or Curley.
The choice then depends on a comparison of the two candidates. If the Democratic Candidate appears to be the man to whom this state can safely entrust its affairs, vote for him. If on the other hand Gaspar G. Bacon, upon his record and platform
as outlined in his public addresses, seems to be best fitted to take the reins of Government, it is a public duty of each citizen to vote for him. Remember, when you cast your ballot, that only these two candidates have any chance of being elected.

People's Forum

For Northfield's Good and for the Good of her Boys and Girls Please Vote NO on both of the Liquor Questions that will appear

ACTION OR DEBATE?

All up and down the nation
We hear the current cries,
"Hard times, but growing better!"
And those whom man deem wise
Are asking, "What does each of us

To better our estate?
Do we find ways of action,
Or dally in debate?"
He who desires good fortune
Is he who does not wait.

For codes, relief committees,
And states to legislate.
He tightens up his braces,
And throws his shoulders back,
Spits on his hands, and—Bingo!
Gives Hard Luck one big whack!

—A. L. Webb.

INTERESTING DAYS

Pestilence ended the career of
"Louis the Lion" (VIII) at Mont-pensier, Auvergne, France, on Nov. 8, 1226. The pretty film actress Marie Prevost lights her birthday candles on Nov. 8.

Another, more famous and much loved character actress of the films, Marie Dressler, was also a November born baby, celebrating the event Nov. 9. An American businessman well known in Canada who was born the same day, in 1873, is John Meredith

Graham a native of Pinewood, Tenn., whose home is now in Highlands, Ontario. He was founder of the bank of Rome, Ga., and "resident or director of many industrial and business projects."

President Henry Noble Mac-Cracken of Vassar College was born in Toledo, Ohio, Nov. 10, 1880, son of the late chancellor of New York University Henry
M. MacCracken.

The American novelist and poet
Thomas Bailey Aldrich was born
Nov. 11, 1836 at Portsmouth, N. H.

Perhaps his best known book
was "The Story of a Bad Boy." He published several volumes of poetry besides his novels, and was editor of the Atlantic Monthly (1881-90).

It was on Nov. 12, 1806, that Napoleon issued his famous de-cret on Berlin declaring the British Isles in a state of blockade, and prohibiting all commerce or correspondence with them.

The light hearted Hollywood
actor Jack Oakie claims Nov. 12
as his natal day. It is the same as the birthday, in 1815, of Elizabeth Cady Stanton, pioneer suf-ragist and reformer.

William Prince of Orange, who was invited to cross the channel and deliver England from the reign of the Stuarts, was born Nov. 14, 1650. It was he who passed the Acts of Toleration and Indemnity the year after his proclamation as king.

LOVELY LACES

The collection of examples of fine laces is a charming hobby, and may lead to the possession of a really valuable display in time.
I saw such a collection in Portland, Ore., recently, and want to tell you about some of the beautiful things. There was, for example, a wonderful 19th century
Brussels needlepoint wedding veil. There were examples of early 18th century point de France, old French needlepoint, Rose point and Brussels needlepoint trimming, black Chantilly and white Brussels bobbin lace, with the flower centers filled with needle-point. There were Rose point motifs for aprique, and an old Honiton lace shawl. There were Carrickmacross applique flowers on net, and gorgeous Venetian point collar and cuffs. There were a number of lace berthas, one of Rosaline point Italian work, one of Venetian work called Burano Rizzonico, and one of Milanese lace. Next week we will speak of some other features of this interesting collection.

CHICKEN, CALIFORNIAN

If the annual home-coming dinner at your house will bring together but a small group this year at Thanksgiving time, why not try a California recipe for baked chicken with oyster dressing?
Blend 1 teaspoon salt and some of chili powder with 1-4 cup melted butter. Mix with 1 pint oysters (drained) 1 cup each of chopped celery and bread crumbs, and stuff the cavity of the chicken with this dressing. Then bake untill tender.

NEW SALAD DRESSING

To dress up your salad, Mrs.
R. J. Chase of St. Margaret's Guild, Vancouver, Wash., says to beat 4 egg yolks, add 1-2 cup pineapple juice, 1-2 teaspoon mustard which has been smoothed
with a little of the juice, and cook until it thickens. Then add 1-2 teaspoon salt, the juice of a lemon, and at the very last, 1-2 pint cream whipped.

LEMON PIE

Those who prefer the good old cornstarch custard combination for a lemon pie filling will like this Canadian recipe for a pie.
Mix 4 level tablespoons of cornstarch with 2 tablespoons of cold water to a smooth paste. Pare the rind off 1-2 lemons and steep 10 minutes in boiling water. Separate the yolks and whites of 2 eggs. Squeeze the juice out of the lemons. Pour 1 cup boiling water over the paste and cook a minute or so until thick and clear. Add 1 cup sugar, and stir a minute till the sugar dissolves. Add the egg yolks slightly beaten. Cook again a minute and add the lemon juice and a teaspoon of butter. Cool at once, and pour into a ready cooked pastry shell. Beat the egg whites for a meringue to top it,
and brown in a slow oven.

BOSTON MERINGUE

Beat the whites of 2 eggs stiff an add 2 tablespoons powdered sugar gradually, continuing beating. Then add 1-2 tablespoon lemon juice or 1-4 teaspoon vanilla,
as preferred.

HOME PROVERBS

CHINESE—"Shave with a file
if you like, but don't blame the razor."
IRISH—"A king's son is not nobler than his food."

A city boy upon his return from his first visit to the country was describing various and sundry forms of animals to his pal. He said: "There was a very large pig there, and all the little pigs just chased and chased it until it was so tired it had to lay down and then the little pigs jumped on it and tried to eat all the buttons off
his vest."

—Nat. Rural Letter Carrier.

THE BACKYARD GARDENER

Yessir, yessir, three bags full.
Nope—not the wool from the black sheep in the nursery rhyme, but three bags full of leaves—and then several more three bag loads until the yard is cleared. The leaves have been dropping like all fury the last few days so the trees around the house are pretty well cleared of them. There's a weeping birch, and a Norway maple that are still holding on to their leaves pretty tightly, an dof course the oaks will hold their most of the winter. But the rest of them are practically barren.

I've been doing a little fancy work with the big wooden rake, getting the leaves off the lawn. Y'see, letting the leaves lie there for a few weeks these last fall days isn't going to help the grass a bit. They could mightly easily smother the grass out if we got a rain or two to make the leaves nice and soggy, so they'd pack well. They make a solid mat over the ground, and the grass doesn't have a chance to get any light or air.

I don't want to give you the idea that I go out every half hour and pick up the leaves that have fallen in that time. The point I'm making is that you'll have to rake
the leaves sometime anyhow, and so you might as well do it as soon as they're off the trees, to keep the grass from smothering out.

I suppose everyone has his own system. Sometimes I've just loaded them in a wheelbarrow and rolled them to the back part of the lot. But on a windy day, you waste an awful lot of time picking up leaves that have blown off the load. So now I've developed the habit of stuffing the leaves into burlap bags, and then carrying the bags on a wheelbarrow. That's where I got that stuff about "Yessir, Yessir, three bags full." Right cute, doncha think? All right, if you don't think so, just keep it to yourself.

I almost forgot to mention that most of the leaves are going into a compost pile with a few of them used for mulching. But nary a one gets burned. They can do too much good around the yard and garden to waste them.

CONTROL

• The most successful football teams are those which come closest to complete control by their coaches.

• Always, however, there is the uncertainty of the human element which, more often than not, makes success a doubtful issue.

• In electric cookery the element of uncertainty has been eliminated through the employment of automatic time and temperature controls.

• Good things come from the modern electric range "cooked to a turn," with no danger of spoilage and no labor of watching and testing.

Hinsdale

Earl Wilder, 20, of Depot St. lost his life at 1:15 A. M. on Friday, Oct. 26th, when the car he owned and was driving left the highway about quarter of a mile south of the Greenfield airport on the Bernardston road. After hitting a tree it bounced 20 feet and turned over three times. Arthur C. Roberts, Jr. of 2 River St., a passenger, was only scratched. Exact cause of the accident is undetermined but Chief of Police Thomas Manning said today wheel marks show the car traveled 66 feet on the shoulder of the road before it struck the tree. Chief Manning also said there were indications of fast driving. The car, a touring car about six or seven years old, was demolished.

Roberts is reported to have said this morning that he and Wilder had attended a movie in Greenfield, Mass., and after driving around town awhile set out for home. He said they were not going fast, but the fog was so heavy they could not see any distance ahead of them.

Roberts was attended by Dr. F. W. Dean of Bernardston. He was taken to the Franklin County Hospital, but did not remain. His only injury was an abrasion on the arm. The body of Wilder was taken to the Lamb funeral parlors. He was the son of John and the late Mary E. Wilder and was born in Hinsdale. He was one of a family of six children, and had always lived in town. He had recently been employed on the federal sewerage construction.

Wilder is survived by his father; two sisters, Mrs. Leon Hull of Walpole and Mrs. Hazel Passeneau of Abingham, Mich.; two brothers, Ralph and Harold Wilder of Putney, Vt.

Roberts was thrown clear of the car when it struck the tree, but Wilder is thought to have been underneath when it turned over. He died instantly.

Funeral services for Earl Francis Wilder, were held at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon in Lamb's funeral parlors. Rev. Sven Laurin, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church officiating. There were many beautiful flowers. The bearers were: Harold Redding, Bernard Fowler, Bernard Podmore and Walter Brooks. Interment was in Wilder lot in Pine Grove cemetery.

The officers of Queen Esther Rebekah Lodge number 64 I. O. O. F., were installed by Mrs. Eunice Stanciliff, District Deputy President on Wednesday evening Oct. 24th. The officers seated were: Past Grand, Mrs. Eunice Carpenter; Noble Grand, Mrs. Ida Watson; Vice Grand, Mrs. Eunice Stanciliff; secretary, Mrs. Etta Plance; treasurer, Miss Georganna Scott; Warden, Mrs. Mary Holman; Conductor, Miss Bessie Coons; R. S. N. G. Mrs. Eva Fay; L. S. N. G. Mrs. Gertrude Bruce; R. S. V. G. Mrs. Emma Stewart; L. S. V. G. Mrs. Elizabeth White; Inside Guardian, Mrs. Gladys Howe; Outside Guardian, W. E. Watson; Chaplain, Mrs. Mary Royce. Members of Miriam Rebekah Lodge of Winchester were the guests of the local lodge.

Following the installation, refreshments were served consisting of salads, sandwiches, rolls, cake and coffee.

The hall was appropriately decorated in keeping with Halloween. A very pleasant evening was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Deane on Hancock St., Thursday, Oct. 25th, when relatives and friends gathered there to help Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Bruce to celebrate their 10th wedding anniversary. Mrs. Bruce is a sister of Mrs. Louis J. Deane. Luncheon was served, which was followed by bridge at the home of Mrs. E. B. Sanderson on the Brattleboro Road. The meeting was a very enjoyable one. Miss Richardson County Commissioner of Cheshire County was the speaker who addressed the ladies on the subject, "Our County Farm." She is a very interesting speaker, with a very pleasing personality and a splendid poise. She handled her subject in a very able manner, speaking without notes and held the attention to the very last. Refreshments were served.

A quiet wedding took place in St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church Saturday morning at 7:30 when Miss Julia A. Bomba of this town, became the wife of Corp. John B. Melecinak of Fort Adams, Newport, R. I.

Mr. and Mrs. William R. Powers, accompanied by friends from Greenfield, Mass., attended the Brown-Syracuse football game in Providence, R. I., Saturday.

Fear in Children

Many parents ask, "Why does my child have fears?" "Where do they come from, and how can they be cured?" Except for fear of falling and of loud noises which are instinctive, fears in children are probably all due to experience.

Many people develop fears in children without knowing it. The child who is thrown into the air, for instance, under the impression that he enjoys it. As a matter of fact, it is usually far from an enjoyable experience because the child gets a sensation of falling—one of the two things which appear to cause fear even at birth.

It is well to keep loud noises away from young babies. Shouting adults, door slamming and the like, should be restrained. On the other hand, keeping the entire household quiet during the children's sleep or rest hour is unnecessary. Children will become accustomed to ordinary sounds.

Fear is one of the most common emotions experienced and is precipitated by many situations. Children should never be frightened. Frightening children is a serious matter and may bring about serious consequences. Yet, many adults take it as a joke. Fears may be planted by false alarms, by exaggerated threats or by imaginary bogies. Someone tells the child that if he is not quiet, someone will get him; that if he doesn't obey, the policeman will come, etc.

Going to the movies or reading stories which are terrorizing or false to life may cause fears to develop in a child. Stories or movies for little children should contain no gruesome, cruel elements and no frightening situations. From these experiences a child may be made afraid of the dark, of dogs and other objects. Even night terrors have developed in children from having been told stories of giants who come at night to cut off children's heads, etc.

A common way of developing fear in a child is caused by talking about things he thinks will hurt him. The parents who talked about the dreadful catastrophes caused by lightning, about burglars, houses burning, etc., may set up fears in regard to these objects and situations.

Children should, of course, be made to exercise caution but without frightening them.

Even in the best regulated homes fears of some kind may take root and flourish. In trying to manage these, first of all, respect the child's fear. It has a basic cause and is a reality to the child. Do not try to laugh it off by derision or shame. A sense of humor with a quality of sympathy helps to turn the trick. Fears of children are foolish and unreasonable to us because of our limited understanding are foolish and unreasonable to us because of our limited understanding of the experience through which the child passes. Do not try to scare him out of his fear by scolding or false threats. Remember that the problem is one of character foundation. Here are a few rules laid down by a prominent expert in child hygiene.

Do not plant unwholesome fears by false alarms, by exaggerated threats, or by imaginary bogies.

Do not let the child go to movies which are absurdly terrifying or false to life.

In the same spirit guide his reading.

Keep the child's body fit. It makes for mental as well as physical resistance. Physical stamina reduces exaggerated fears.

Fear needs regulation and control. It is no more a disease than hunger. We should not try to banish fear in a child as though it were a germ but to give him instead the example and pattern of fear control.

Bacon Speaks
On Curley Record

Referring again to the solicitation of campaign contributions from contractors of the state, and adding that another letter is now at hand, over the signature of Charles H. McGue, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, to an incorporated concern relative to contributions, Lt. Gov. Gaspar G. Bacon, candidate for Governor, last night asked "Who then, would Mr. Curley serve if he were Governor of Massachusetts?"

Lt. Gov. Bacon said that Curley's talks in the campaign are political subterfuge, resorted to by him to try to cover up his wretched record in public office.

The lieutenant governor spoke last night at rallies in Chelsea and Winthrop.

In his address, Lt. Gov. Bacon said: "There is no one more cruel and heartless than a political charlatan who aspires to high public office by the exploitation of human misery, knowing full well that his promises are shallow and empty—that he cannot fulfill them, that his sole interest is one of arrogant selfishness."

"In the sheer desperation which results from exposure and the continuing collapse of his campaign, my opponent, Curley, who has been boasting of a work-and-wages slogan without the semblance of a thought or suggestion as to how the slogan could be converted into fact, is now shouting: 'Curley fights to save 200,000 jobs.' He is jumping from one rash statement to another in his picturesque but futile vote-catching quest."

"Repeatedly from the public platform, by radio and through the public press, he has been called upon to come forward and tell the people what he proposes to do to back up his promises. To date, the only concrete suggestion he has offered has been a stinging boomerang. He said he would borrow $15,000,000 from the Federal Government to create a new Saratoga at Lenox, in the western part of the State, replete with race tracks, casinos, sports helms and other amusements. He said it had been approved in part and that the money was now forthcoming. Immediately thereafter, from Washington, came a complete denial of everything he had said. His alleged project was exposed as a ridiculous dream, which had not been approved, would not be approved, and for which, in any event, no funds were available."

"Now all of this political subterfuge has been resorted to by him to cover up his wretched record in public office, to try to avoid, explanation of how he acquired his wealth while Mayor of Boston. He knows that he cannot discuss the only issue of the campaign—decency and honesty in government—made so by the very record which he now endeavors to hide."

"In order that the people might know the truth, it has been necessary for me to discuss his record at length, his political connections—the contractors, and to show that his campaign promises never have been carried out once he got into office. I showed yesterday in the manner in which a club is being used on contractors to get them to finance his campaign for Governor. Let me now disclose still another money-raising program which he is resorting to, and which is in direct violation of the law."

"My attention has been called to a letter which has been sent out to corporations generally over the signature of Charles H. McGue, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, who is Mr. Curley's campaign manager. Now it is a violation of the Corrupt Practice Act to solicit funds from corporations for political purposes, and it is a violation of the law to make or receive such contributions. Yet he is what this letter, dated October 22, 1934, says: I quote:

"In view of the fact that such friendly feeling exists between this Committee and your firm we are asking you and all your friends to be on record in regard to a financial contribution. We can assure our friends of continued co-operation. We urge your immediate attention in regard to this matter." End of quote.

"There is an interesting postscript to this letter, which I shall also quote: "Don't fail or delay making a record of your contribution. All matters with this Committee handled strictly confidential."

"Of course we are aware of the tremendous expenditures of money being made in this campaign by my opponent. There are signs of it everywhere. It is therefore only right that the public should know the source of the contributions—contractors and corporations. Who then, would Mr. Curley serve if he were Governor of Massachusetts?"

"He pretends now to favor shorter working hours for the people. His record does not show it. He had a chance when Mayor to permit the employees in the Registry of Deeds to shorten their work day during the two hottest months of summer by one hour. The City Council of Boston passed an order to this effect. In a sarcastic message on June 11, 1923, he vetoed the order. Can anyone believe him now when running for election he advocated shorter working hours?"

BROTHERHOOD SPEAKER

Members and friends of the Brotherhood will be interested in the following personal history of the Rev. Moses Richardson Lovell.

Reverend Moses Richardson Lovell now pastor of the Second Congregational Church, Holyoke, Mass., was born in Millis, Mass. He took his undergraduate work at the College of Liberal Arts at Boston University and received his degree in Divinity at the Andover-Harvard Theological School in 1921 at Cambridge, Mass. During the years 1917-1918 he served in the United States Army getting his commission as an officer in Machine Gunners in the World War. His first parish was in Durham, New Hampshire, where he was called to be pastor of the Community University of New Hampshire Church, unique for the fact that among the members were representatives of more than twenty-four different Protestant denominations. The Church there is the only one in the Community and undertakes a specialized ministry to the student body which numbers more than 1600. In 1925 Mr. and Mrs. Lovell were members of the Sherwood Eddy party, an annual tour arranged for the purpose of meeting the leading representatives of the European Capitals in order to provide the visitors including journalists, teachers, clergymen and others with the salient facts abroad that they may be interpreted to the American mind and help internationalize America's outlook and spirit. In 1926 he was called to the pastorate of the Mt. Pleasant Congregational Church in Washington, D. C. While in Washington he came into national prominence as the founder of the "Washington Life Adjustment Center" which was operated under the auspices of his church. This center was organized including on its staff doctors, lawyers, economists, psychiatrists, educators, clergymen, and others who sought through private conferences with individual men, women and children to solve the many intimate human problems of the varied maladjustment. This center is now continuing its work in the nation's capital sponsored by the Washington Community Chest and has become a fixture in the city's life. Many other such agencies in the United States and in foreign countries have been established based on the original experiment in Washington. In 1931 Mr. Lovell accepted a call to the Second Congregational Church in Waterbury, Conn.

That church is the 7th largest in the Congregational group in the United States having a membership of 1522. In Waterbury he established another Life Adjustment Center which is just completing its third and busiest year of life in serving the Community need.

The church in Waterbury also has widely known Sunday Forums that bring leading speakers from all over the country to speak on various timely themes. The Forum is popularly known as "Waterbury's University" attracting to its audiences hundreds of people representing all creeds and nationalities. One of the most popular features of his past two years of service in Waterbury have been the series of book and play reviews given on week nights followed by representing all creeds and classes and their purpose according to Mr. Lovell is to fill with constructive and inspiring content the new leisure of adult men and women.

Mr. Lovell will begin a series of book reviews at the Second Congregational Church in Holyoke, Mass., on October 16th and continuing for six weeks.

THE MOTOR CLINIC

You have heard of clinics for humans where prevention is practiced before cures become necessary.

Now there is one for automobiles. The Ford Motor Co., has installed in its Dealer's Service Stations a complicated affair known as the Ford Laboratory Test Set. By the use of this set the mechanic is able to spot weak places in the automobile that may develop trouble later.

The machine is scientifically accurate and enables the motorist to sit in his car and watch the vital parts of his car's mechanism record on a series of dials just what conditions prevail therein. It takes the guess work out of motor car repairs by giving an accurate picture at once of just where the trouble is or may develop.

It is particularly fine for the man who takes pride in his car for he can go on the test and be reassured that his car is ready for the road.

Spencer Bros. local Ford Dealers are showing the Laboratory Test Set in Northfield and invite any car owner to see how it works on their car.

People's Forum

Just In Case You Weren't Going To...

On November 6 the call will go out for all citizens to make up their minds about certain questions in their own affairs, and then to go forth to a common place and register that decision by voting. Yet, how many people in Northfield will take this opportunity to mind their own business?

A great deal of money is going to be spent on November 6th, and it is up to the voters to determine how it shall be spent,—or else just plain given over to politicians who make promises as freely as the New Deal spends money.

Northfield is Republican, but Curley does not want the state to be. Shall we not all vote and do our bit to let the crooked politicians seek their filthy lucre elsewhere?

Or must we be paid to vote? But this certainly would not solve the problem when people are willing to go pay and pay dearly for the privilege of staying home on election day.

Have we no transportation? That can be provided for all by applying to the town Republican Committee of which Theodore Darby is the President. So there can be no excuse.

The Republican Committee had rather transport the voters to the polls on November 6 than to be forced by high taxes to carry them over the hill to the poor house at a later date.

Then let us tend to our business on Tuesday, November 6 and set that day apart as one in which we can set our political house in order. If we think that we need help,—and we certainly do, let us ask our neighbors to help, let us call up our friends.—(The telephone can be used for minding our own business.) But by all means let us be true to the trust bestowed upon us by those who made this country a Democracy rather than a Dictatorship.

EDWARD C. MORGAN

Garden Club

Literature is full of allusions to gardens of all kinds, but today I am thinking especially of the fairy gardens or places of peace, that bloomed in years gone by. They were known under various names, from the Garden of Hesperides loved by the Greeks, to the Islands of the Blessed, the Island of Avilion, and the Land of the Living. Few details are ever given, but one and all are placed in the West, seen only as a mirage by mortal eyes.

The tree bearing the golden apples signifying fruitfulness, grew there, with the tree of life and the tree of knowledge. Fountains of eternal youth rushed from the rocks, and life was sweet and without hurt. Lovely ladies smiled and walked softly on the velvet sward. Knights laid aside their armor and hung up their swords. Repose was the keynote of them all. How weary the old world must have been of strife to have pictured with such yearning tenderness, these islands of rest. In the Gardens of Hesperides, a dragon guarded the coveted golden apples, but everywhere else they were true places of refuge for bruised bodies and souls. Places of always summer, of unending beauty. In the records handed down to us from the past, filled to overflowing with accounts of battles, of intrigues, of treachery of all kinds, these illusive gardens bloom like oases in desert sands. We are apt to think that the knight of old, cared for bloodshed and slaughter. That he thought only in terms of avarice and lust. But the road of travel must oft-times have been irksome. Even as we are, he was bound by custom and driven by necessity, constantly on the defensive, hunted by fear. No matter what he may have decided, he dared not offend the code of his day. Put his soul reached far away and created a land of peace far away in the mists of the west. A land that basked always in the splendor of the setting sun. A land where the limited things of earth wandered unafraid. There he was not, nor aught of harm. Birds sang, flowers bloomed and children played in the sun. Man lived at peace with his neighbor and maidens rambled unmolested among the trees. The cares that beset earthly life came not near, and even the memory of ancient wrongs and wounds faded and died. The Blessed Isles were very near to the troubled hearts of men then. They were just beyond the horizon and the scent of the celestial flowers floated in the evening winds. How often must some mother, her heart aching with recent loss, have strained her tear-dimmed eyes to catch a glimpse of the Shining Land. Or some warrior, his battered body torn and slashed with spear and sword, have gazed with longing eyes toward the setting sun. Many claimed to have seen the Blessed Isles, rising fair and without stain out of the sea. Many like Arthur of old caught the vision of the "Island valley of Avilion; Where falls not hail, or rain, or any snow, Nor ever wind blows loudly; but it lies Deep-meadowed, happy, fair with orchard lawns And bowery hollows crown'd with summer sea, Where I will heal me of my grievous wound."

But those that went returned not. They sailed into the west and "Somewhere far off, pass on and on, and go, from loss to loss and vanish into light."

Be Brave! Be Bold!

by Lawrence Hawthorne

Be not content with meager vistas;
Life is a scene of broad expanses!
Let not the scope of your endeavor
Be circumscribed by circumstances!
Look up! Climb high! Enlarge your view;
The far horizons call to you!

Whatever dreams your soul is dreaming,
Whatever hopes your heart may cherish,
Give them the chance to find fulfillment
Before they grow inert and perish!
Be brave! Be bold! Make dreams come true;
The far horizons call to you!

The only bounds to your achievement
Are fashioned by your own submission;
Your destiny is in your keeping;
Your will determines your condition.
Revive! Revolt! Demand your duel
The far horizons call to you!

South Vernon

Miss Elizabeth Stearns, with her pupils gave an excellent Halloween entertainment at the South Schoolhouse last Friday evening. Miss Ginnie Edson, dressed in a pretty costume, announced the program.

Songs were sung by the primary grades as well as the whole school and older grades. Two piano solos were played by Janice Pratt, and Courtland Dunklee, two piano duets by Misses Alma Dunklee and Nina Gray. Recitations were given by others, and the play, "A Halloween Surprise," in two scenes, was well given.

The primary grades also spoke pieces all together, each holding a lighted pumpkin, Jack-o-Lantern. Candy and popcorn was on sale during the intermission. The schoolhouse was well filled even if it was a dark and rainy night.

Mrs. R. E. Bruce and Mrs. E. P. Edson went to Boston and Lexington, Mass., Tuesday on a business and pleasure trip combined, returning home Wednesday night. Residents have been surprised to see the early coming of snow, which looks as though winter was just around the corner.

A. A. Dunklee attended a meeting in Buffalo, N. Y. in the interest of the Eastern States Exchange. He went Friday via of Springfield, Mass., returning Sunday.

Winchester

The annual Halloween Party and dance of the Winchester Woman's club was held in the town hall Wednesday night. The auditorium was in gala attire with festoons and draperies, with a very impressive Halloween effect. The stage was decorated so as to surround Lou Clark's Musical Barons of Salem, Mass., who gave a very interesting concert from eight to half-past eight o'clock and afterwards furnished music for dancing, which consisted in several novelty dances and a well chosen selection of other dances. Mr. Park Weed was floor manager. Refreshments were served, all of the booths being well patronized. The proceeds will be used for the welfare and for the Community Christmas tree.

This was usual the big social event here in Winchester. This was an invitation affair and the town, elite were in attendance. The intermediate Christian Endeavor Society held a masquerade Halloween party Tuesday evening at the church. Those in attendance were, Margaret Kellom, Natalie Young, Willard Barrett, Carolyn Francis Brony Smoski, Agnes Barrett, Martha Barrett, Jeanette Baker, Elly Derby, Dorothy Nolan, Leon Pelkey, Irene Pelkey, Luther Tacy, Eddie Zys, Elizabeth Oliver, Charlotte Holton, Eleanor Holton, Thurston Thompson, Christine Jennings, Charlotte Fosdick, Ruth Kellom, Fred Prescott, Cornelius Wood, Gordon Phillips, Paul Phil-Danallips, Jean Thurston, Dana Coburn, Warren Fosdick, Theron Fosdick, Elva Tarbell, Esther Anderson, Walter Thompson, Harold Hollingworth, Billy Donovan, Roger Conway, Neil Horner, Mary Wheeler, Lucy Carlson, Thelma Ware, Anna Nolan, Nancy Har-nard, Charles Druger, Jr., Donald Wentworth, Maynard Hollingsworth, Dorothy Tacy, Dana Sisson, Eleanor Phillips, Linda Allsopp.

Following the supper there will be a concert by Prof. James Houghton of Boston, Mass., noted tenor. Prof. Houghton has been here before and no one pleases Winchester people as much as Prof. Houghton.

The committee in charge are Mrs. Mary Hardwick, Chairman, Mrs. Flora Bullock, Mrs. Helle Brown, Mrs. Luna Nelson, Mrs. May Kelley, Mrs. Florence Carl,

The great mystery concerning the real identity of Nellie Bly will be disclosed at the breach of promise suit which is now on trial at the Winchester town hall. Prominent people in town have already given their testimony. Before the trial Crowley stated he thought he could bring the defendant through, but Judge Pierce says, justice must be done and will be done in any court where he presides.

Tonight the trial will be brought to a close and the verdict rendered "The Trial of the Century," is being presented by members of the American Legion Post of Winchester Nov. 1 & 2.

Last Friday afternoon a regular meeting of the Junior King's Daughters was held at the home of Mrs. F. P. Kellom.

The King's Daughters met at the home of Mrs. Ruth Brown on Wednesday afternoon at 2 P. M. Mrs. Josie Brown and Mrs. Cherrie Scott as hostesses.
